

WASHINGTON CHAPTER of the
AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

Architect/Client Resource Center

When prospective clients call AIA|DC for information about local Architects, we invite them to visit the Architect/Client Resource Center.

The Resource center is a library of architecture firm portfolios housed in the Board Room of the Chapter House. It also includes portfolios for architecture-related services such as contractors, landscape architects, specialty furniture distributors, and more.

Prospective clients come here for a “hands-on” experience to find the right architect for their project. They study the portfolios and pick up free literature on how to work with an architect. In addition to prospective clients, the Resource Center serves job seekers, journalists, and students—anyone who wants to learn more about architecture in Washington.

Eligibility

To join, a firm must have at least one principal, partner, or owner who is a current member of AIA|DC.

Cost

Firms subscribe annually. Subscription fees are based on the staff size:

1-5 person staff = $125.00

6-14 person staff = $150.00

15+ person staff = $175.00

Allied Members = $75.00

New subscriber is provided binder inserts for their portfolio along with instructions. Each firm designs its own materials, although the Chapter staff is happy to provide assistance or advice on request.

In addition to your portfolio, which will be located at the Chapter House, Resource Center members will be give a link on the “Hire An Architect” page of the AIA|DC web site.
